LOWINE

NATURAL WINE BAR & KITCHEN — RIGA

HoReCa Price List

Wholesale prices for restaurant, bar and hotel partners

LOWINE is a family-run natural wine bar and kitchen in Riga, built around honest food and low-intervention wine. Our list is made up of bottles from growers who farm responsibly and vinify with minimal intervention — people who respect the land they work on.

The list is curated by Ludmila Zhilina (WSET Level 2). Most of the producers on it we know personally — we have visited many of these wineries ourselves, rather than building the list from a catalogue.

This selection has been recognised with Gold and Best Newcomer (Latvia, 2023) and Best Short Wine List (Latvia & Baltics, 2023) at Star Wine List of the Year, and LOWINE is listed in the Michelin Guide.

2Naturkinder

FRANKEN · GERMANY — ORGANIC, NATURAL

Michael Völker and Melanie Drese took over Michael's family winery on the River Main in Franken, an estate dating to 1843, releasing their first vintage under the 2Naturkinder label in 2013. They farm roughly seven hectares organically with a deliberately biodiverse approach — hedgerows, deadwood piles, high varietal diversity — and work with minimal intervention: hand-harvested, native-yeast fermentation with no additives and, on most cuvées, no added sulfites, fining or filtration. Their main grape is Silvaner, supplemented by Müller-Thurgau and Pinot varieties, in playful, boldly labelled bottlings such as Vater & Sohn and BRUTAL!!!

Ampeleia

MAREMMA · TUSCANY · ITALY — ORGANIC & BIODYNAMIC

Ampeleia was founded in 2002 in the Colline Metallifere hills of Alta Maremma by Trentino winemaker Elisabetta Foradori together with Giovanni Podini and Thomas Widmann, with Marco Tait leading viticulture today. The estate converted to organic and, from 2009, biodynamic farming, and is run as an integrated “farm organism” with livestock and cover crops inside the Colline Metallifere UNESCO Global Geopark. Ampeleia is best known for Cabernet Franc — including several single-parcel bottlings — alongside the historic Maremma grape Alicante Nero, the Trebbiano-based Bianco di Ampeleia, and the everyday blend Unlitro.

Bianka & Daniel Schmitt

FLÖRSHEIM-DALSHEIM · RHEINHESSEN · GERMANY — BIODYNAMIC (DEMETER)

Daniel Schmitt represents the fourth generation of his family's winery in Flörsheim-Dalsheim, in Rheinhessen's Wonnegau district; he and his wife Bianka took over the estate around 2012 and have since expanded its holdings. The estate is Demeter-certified biodynamic — one of only around 80 such producers in Germany — and works without stainless steel, ageing wines in large wooden vessels and clay amphorae. Their range centres on Riesling and Silvaner alongside Grauburgunder, Weissburgunder and Spätburgunder, and their wines have drawn strong scores from natural-wine critics at tastings in Paris, Copenhagen, London and Berlin.

Champagne Fleury

COURTERON · CÔTE DES BAR · CHAMPAGNE · FRANCE — BIODYNAMIC (BIODYVIN)

Founded in 1895, the Fleury family has farmed the Aube's Côte des Bar for five generations; Jean-Pierre Fleury began converting the estate to biodynamics in 1989, completing certification across all 15 hectares by 1992 — among the first biodynamic estates in Champagne. Now run by his children Jean-Sébastien, Benoît and Morgane, the estate is planted predominantly to Pinot Noir and Chardonnay on Kimmeridgian soils. House style is low-intervention and minimal-sulfur, spanning cuvées such as Blanc de Noirs, Rosé de Saignée and the sulfur-free Sonate.

Champagne Hugues Godmé

VERZENAY · MONTAGNE DE REIMS · CHAMPAGNE · FRANCE — BIODYNAMIC (BIODYVIN)

The Godmé family has cultivated vines in Verzenay for five generations; Hugues Godmé shifted the estate to organic farming, certified in 2010, then achieved Biodyvin biodynamic certification in 2011. The roughly 7.5-hectare estate is split across some 80 small parcels in Grand Cru Verzenay and Verzy and Premier Cru Villers-Marmery and Villedommange. Winemaking is parcel-by-parcel and low-intervention — spontaneous fermentation in neutral oak and cement, gravity-fed cellar work, and single-vineyard cuvées often bottled with no dosage — with daughter Lucile now co-running the domaine.

Champagne Moussé Fils

CUISLES · VALLÉE DE LA MARNE · CHAMPAGNE · FRANCE — ORGANIC PRACTICE

The Moussé family has grown grapes in Cuisles for twelve generations; great-grandfather Eugène Moussé began estate-bottling in 1923, and Cédric Moussé, who took over in 2003, is the fourth generation to do so. The domaine phased out herbicides and synthetic pesticides between 2008 and 2014 and now farms organically wherever possible, without formal certification. A Pinot Meunier specialist, Moussé Fils produced Champagne's first 100% Meunier Special Club cuvée in 2005, and its style is purity-driven and low-dosage.

Château Peybonhomme-les-Tours

CARS · BLAYE CÔTES DE BORDEAUX · FRANCE — BIODYNAMIC (DEMETER)

Run by siblings Rachel and Guillaume Hubert alongside their parents, this family estate near Cars, in the Blaye Côtes de Bordeaux appellation, has been in Hubert hands since the 1890s and Demeter-certified biodynamic since 2000 — among the earliest biodynamic conversions in Bordeaux. The 60-hectare property is farmed without irrigation on clay-limestone slopes above the Gironde estuary, with native-yeast fermentation and low sulfur additions. The Huberts also run a separate Côtes de Bourg property, Château La Grolet, biodynamically.

Clos Lentiscus

SANT PERE DE RIBES · PENEDÈS · CATALONIA · SPAIN — ORGANIC (CCPAE) & BIODYNAMIC PRACTICE

Clos Lentiscus is a natural wine estate in Sant Pere de Ribes, in the Garraf natural park of Penedès, built on Can Ramon, a family farm with vineyards dating to the 14th century. Winemaker Manel Aviñó relaunched the project in 2001, working native Catalan varieties such as Sumoll, Xarel·lo and Malvasia de Sitges under organic (CCPAE-certified) and biodynamic farming. The estate is best known for traditional-method, native-yeast-fermented sparkling wines and pét-nats — many bottled with no added sulfites — earning Aviñó the nickname "the Bubble Man" in the natural wine world.

De Fermo

LORETO APRUTINO · ABRUZZO · ITALY — BIODYNAMIC

De Fermo was founded by Stefano Papetti Ceroni and Eloisa de Fermo in Loreto Aprutino, Abruzzo, adopting biodynamic methods from 2008 and releasing their first vintage in 2010. The couple farms roughly 200 hectares as a diversified, biodiversity-focused property — vines alongside olives, vegetables and grazing land — with Montepulciano and Pecorino as the core varieties. Their US importer, Rosenthal Wine Merchant, calls De Fermo “one of the very finest sources of Abruzzo wine.”

Esencia Rural

QUERO · TOLEDO · LA MANCHA · SPAIN — NATURAL, OLD-VINE AIRÉN

Esencia Rural is the project of Julián Ruiz Villanueva, founded in Quero, Toledo, in 2001, farming organically with biodynamic practices across ungrafted bush vines up to 140 years old. Ruiz is widely credited in the trade as “the godfather of Spanish orange wine,” working old-vine Airén through spontaneous fermentation with native yeasts, no additives and extended skin contact. The range runs from the more accessible Pampaneo line to the more experimental, amphora-aged De Sol a Sol line.

F. Schatz

RONDA · MÁLAGA · ANDALUSIA · SPAIN — ORGANIC & BIODYNAMIC PRACTICE

Bodega F. Schatz was founded in 1982 by Friedrich “Federico” Schatz, whose German-speaking family has worked in viticulture since 1641, at a time when Ronda’s vineyards had lain dormant since phylloxera. Planted at Finca Sanguijuela in the Sierra de las Nieves, the estate became a pioneer of the region’s modern wine revival and one of the first certified-organic wineries in Málaga province, and now also farms biodynamically. The range is anchored by Acinipo — 100% Lemberger/Blaufränkisch, grown by no other Spanish producer — alongside Finca Sanguijuela reds, Pinot Noir and Petit Verdot.

Lammidia

VILLA CELIERA · ABRUZZO · ITALY — NATURAL, AMPHORA-AGED

Lammidia was founded in 2013 in Villa Celiera, Abruzzo, by childhood friends Davide Gentile and Marco Giuliani, who work old-vine Montepulciano, Trebbiano and Pecorino on clay-limestone soils under the credo “uva e basta” — grapes and nothing else. Fermentations are spontaneous with no added sulfites at any stage, and a signature range is aged in hand-built amphorae alongside concrete, fibreglass and steel.

Macchion dei Lupi

SUVERETO · TUSCANY · ITALY — BIODYNAMIC (COVIBIO)

Carlo Parenti left a career in banking to found this small estate in Suvereto, on Tuscany's Costa degli Etruschi, now producing roughly 25,000 bottles a year. The farm is certified biodynamic and belongs to CoViBio, the Italian association of biodynamic winegrowers, with spontaneous fermentation, no temperature control, and no fining or filtration. Known locally as the appellation's "bianchista" for his focus on whites, Parenti makes three whites, three reds and one ancestral-method sparkling from the estate's own vines.

Milan Nestarec

VELKÉ BÍLOVICE · MORAVIA · CZECH REPUBLIC — NATURAL

Milan Nestarec farms his family's estate in Velké Bílovice, Moravia, moving it toward organic farming, spontaneous fermentation and additive-free winemaking from the mid/late-2000s onward. The estate covers roughly 20–30 hectares of loess, clay, limestone and sand, planted mainly to Grüner Veltliner, Riesling, Sauvignon Blanc, Müller-Thurgau, Pálava and Moravian Muscat alongside Blaufränkisch, Pinot Noir and Cabernet Franc. His wines range from focused single-vineyard bottlings to playful, provocative cuvées like Dopamin and Postmoderna, reflecting his stated aim of putting energy and joy into wine rather than dogma. He is widely regarded by wine trade press as one of the leading figures of the Central European natural wine movement.

Mira

VELKÉ BÍLOVICE · MORAVIA · CZECH REPUBLIC — NATURAL

MIRA is the label of Mirka Nestarcová, made alongside her husband Milan Nestarec at their shared estate in Velké Bílovice, Moravia — the couple describe it as “a winery within a winery.” Grapes come from Velké Bílovice and neighbouring Moravský Žižkov, on loess, clay and sandy soils, vinified as single-varietal wines. The approach blends organic farming with biodynamic, regenerative and minimal-pruning practices, spontaneous fermentation, and ageing in wood and concrete with no enological additives.

Samuel Cano

MOTA DEL CUERVO · LA MANCHA · SPAIN — NATURAL (“VINOS PATIO”)

Samuel Cano founded his winery in Mota del Cuervo, at the meeting point of the Cuenca, Toledo and Ciudad Real provinces, beginning natural production in 2006. Farming organically across roughly 60 hectares of calcareous clay, he works native varieties — chiefly Airén and Tinto Velasco — with indigenous yeasts, no temperature control and no added sulphites. Under the Vinos Patio label, standout bottlings include Micmac, an ancestral-method sparkling from Airén and Muscat, and Atardecer en el Patio, a Tinto Velasco red.

Tenuta Selvadolce

BORDIGHERA · LIGURIA · ITALY — BIODYNAMIC PRACTICE

Tenuta Selvadolce is run by founder Aris Blancardi, who committed the family's vineyard land near Bordighera to biodynamic conversion in the early 2000s after training in biodynamic viticulture. The estate farms about seven hectares at elevations up to 600m, dry-farmed with only biodynamic preparations as vineyard inputs, and vinifies with indigenous yeasts, no fining or filtration, and minimal added sulfur. Key wines are built on native Ligurian varieties — whites from Pigato and Vermentino, reds from Rossese, Granaccia and Ormeasco.

Weingut Heinrich

GOLS · BURGENLAND · AUSTRIA — BIODYNAMIC (DEMETER)

Gernot Heinrich founded the estate in Gols, on the northeastern shore of the Neusiedlersee, in 1990; his wife Heike joined him and the property has since grown to around 90–100 hectares. The Heinrichs converted the estate to biodynamic farming in 2006 and are Demeter-certified, alongside Respekt-BIODYN. Their range spans the skin-contact "Freyheit" wines, the entry-level "Naked" line, and flagship cuvées such as Gabarinza, a Zweigelt-Blaufränkisch-Merlot blend from one of Gols' oldest hillside sites; the Heinrichs are founding members of the Pannobile growers' collective.

Weingut Pittnauer

GOLS · BURGENLAND · AUSTRIA — BIODYNAMIC (RESPECT-BIODYN)

Weingut Pittnauer is run by Gerhard and Brigitte Pittnauer — known simply as “the Pittis” — from Gols, on the shores of Lake Neusiedl in Burgenland, Austria. The family took over Gerhard’s parents’ 3.8-hectare estate around 1994 and have since built it into one of Austria’s leading natural wine producers. The estate has been farmed biodynamically since 2006, and in 2007 Gerhard co-founded RESPECT-BIODYN, an international association of biodynamic growers. Made with minimal intervention, their wines have twice earned the couple “Winegrower of the Year” honours from Falstaff and Gault&Millau (2014 and 2016).

Sake Selection

SEVEN BREWERIES · JAPAN

LOWINE's sake programme draws on seven small, independent breweries across Japan — from Kyoto and Chiba to Osaka, Wakayama and Hyōgo — each working traditional or artisanal methods: bodaimoto and kimoto starters, yamahai fermentation, and long-aged kijōshu. Several are singular expressions rarely found outside Japan, including Tamagawa (headed by English toji Philip Harper) and Mukai Shuzo's ancient red-rice Ine Mankai.
